

Notes from SLS Parent Forum 17.1.24

6 parents attended the parent forum on 17th January 2024. Miss Paulding shared the Maths and Phonics pages of the school website, which have been updated with information to help parents with supporting their children at home. The parents in attendance asked for information about this to go home in the weekly newsletter.

Parents fed back that the change to homework is working well and they are appreciating a more creative approach to homework which gives some scope for children to play to their skills and interests. A few specific comments were raised about individual homework and encouraging children to remember to take their reading and spelling logs home. These comments have been noted by Miss Paulding. Miss Paulding will look to put out a letter about homework detailing when this comes home to support parents.

There was some discussion about the books that children bring home, including whether library books come home or stay at school. The staff will put together a letter about this, including information about Phonics, in the near future.

Miss Paulding then explained that the school would like to extend its extracurricular offer and asked the parents present if there were people in the local community who would be interested in running lunchtime clubs such as gardening, art and/or sewing. If anyone is interested, please contact office@sundonlower.co.uk

There was also a discussion about breakfast and after school clubs. This is a topic which the Senior Leadership Team will continue to consider.
